

CRIME PREVENTION PROGRAM

ALEUTIAN HOUSING AUTHORITY

Targeting youth to promote healthier and safer lifestyles

The Aleutian Housing Authority Crime Prevention Program (CCP) is designed to allow our tribal partners to develop and implement programs that provide the opportunities to address crime prevention or other related activities aimed at youth (targeted specifically to NAHASDA eligible youth), to promote healthier and safer lifestyles. The program offers flexibility to address the needs of each member community on an individual basis.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND IMPLEMENTATION

The CPP program is designed as a “match program”. Matching tribal NAHASDA Needs with AHA NAHASDA CAS funds to provide program services and activities that are designed to deter youth from criminal, drug and alcohol or other related negative lifestyle choices. Each tribe that elects to participate will have the opportunity to submit a brief CPP program narrative and associated budget justification, explaining what kind of services or activities they would like to fund. AHA will match up to a maximum of $3,000, with a $3,000 commitment from the tribal participant, giving each tribe a maximum total program budget of $6,000.

AHA match funds are provided on a “Use it or Lose it” basis. Funds will be made available upon receipt of the fiscal year NAHASDA disbursement and must be utilized within a 12-month period.

AHA has established a process to give each tribal council an opportunity to participate in creating some crime prevention programs and activities within their communities by following these steps:

The tribe will be able to designate a dollar amount from their NAHASDA Needs funds up to the allowable maximum of $3,000 through an authorization letter signed by the tribal president or a tribal resolution. Funds will be advanced up front, but each year's program must be properly closed out and certified by AHA staff to be in compliance with these program rules prior to a subsequent award being made.

Each tribe that participates in this program must submit a program narrative and associated budget justification, which must reflect expenditures on an allowable NAHASDA eligible activity. AHA will review and provide a notice back to the tribe within fifteen (15) days as to the acceptance or rejection of the submission. If a tribe has an active Boys & Girls Club or Boy or Girl Scout troop within their community, they will be encouraged to continue funding these programs, but this is a tribal decision. A letter of authorization or a tribal resolution will still be required confirming the allocation of funds to a third party.
